

Women Relief Workers Seek Aid for Russia

Describe Distress of Primitive Farming People When Streams Dry Up and the Harvests Fail

Food Needed for Adults

Famine Fund Committee Asks 5 Million to Supplement Work of U. S. Board

An audience of perhaps seven hundred filed sparsely the lower floor of the Lexington Theater last night to hear from representatives of the Russian Famine Fund of the urgency of Russia's need.

Miss Anna Haines, a quiet, undemonstrative woman, told in a small, clear voice of the distress that overtakes a primitive agricultural people when the streams dry at their sources and the harvests fail. Miss Haines, a Quaker, recently returned from Russia, where she had been for eighteen months the principal relief worker for the Society of Friends in the region of the Volga, told of the conditions as she has seen them and has learned from inquiry.

Refugees Wander Aimlessly

She told of the panic attending the famine and the refugees who clustered about every junction point. "There was a frantic stream of refugees going our way, and we passed others going in the opposite direction," she said. "They did not much care which way they were going—they were just going in search for food. Some were coming from Uralsk and going to Ufa; some were going from Ufa to Uralsk. One family had passed across the country in June with two horses, small children and a baby. They had been traveling to a place they were told contained food. When they reached there they found less food in that town than in their own home, and they were now wandering along the way back, saying that they preferred to die at home rather than in a 'foreign land.'"

The Soviet government is giving its utmost to fighting the famine, it is for no other reason than that it realizes that even the present famine situation would be as nothing compared to conditions next year if every effort were not given to the rehabilitation of the land. Its means of help in its own difficult situation are slight, however. It has sent out families from the famine area to settle in Siberia. It has distributed some seed corn and wheat, it was said.

Peasants Devoted to Land

A tragic illustration of the peasant's covetousness toward the land, of the peculiar quality of his devotion to it, lies in the fact that the peasants put this seed grain in the ground, though their horses are dropping in the fields for want of it, though they and their children live on grass cakes and sunflower seed, and though they themselves may not be able to see it come up with the spring.

The American relief expedition is taking care only of the children. Among children under three years of age there is a mortality of 90 per cent; among children from three to twelve there is a death rate of 75 per cent. The scourge among adults is scarcely less, said Miss Haines, when you consider that villages of 700 are reduced to 200, with little chance of that number surviving the winter.

The famine fund committee appeals for $5,000,000 to supplement the work among the children by general relief to adults as well. Until now the Society of Friends, represented by Miss Haines, has been the only organization to give aid to all who applied to it.

Rabbi Judah Magnes was the chairman of last night's meeting and pleaded that religious and political differences be sunk in the presence of Russia's agonizing need. Raymond Robins and Allen Wardwell, chairman of the fund, also spoke.

Senate Conferees Strike Out Amendments to Relief Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Senate conferees late today agreed to eliminate from the bill carrying $20,000,000 for the purchase of food for starving Russians all Senate amendments, including an item of $500,000 for additional hospital facilities for war veterans and $100,000 to relieve unemployment. The bill as agreed to in conference is exactly in the form in which it was approved by the House. The latter body before adjournment today agreed to the conference report.

Dollar Is Below Par In Switzerland Alone

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 21. (By The Associated Press).—Switzerland is the only country in the world where the American dollar to-day was below par. The dollar was quoted at 5 francs 12 centimes on the Geneva Bourse.

The normal rate before the war was 5 francs 15 centimes. The highest rate after the armistice was signed was 5 francs 99 centimes.

American visitors who are losing by the exchange rate, however, are fewer this year than during any past season in twenty years.

Senators Informed Corporal in Georgia Murdered a Soldier

Charge Made by Witness "Non-Com" Shot in Back a Private Who Before Had Been Felled With a Club

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Because of the absence of a half dozen witnesses summoned to appear to-day the Senate committee investigation of charges by Senator Watson, Democrat, of Georgia, that American soldiers had been hanged in France without trial, was forced over until after the Christmas holidays.

The only former soldier appearing to-day—Marion J. Wallis, of Athens, Ga.—did not serve overseas, his testimony relating entirely to the alleged killing of a private named Halley by a corporal at Camp Wheeler, Georgia, in 1918. War Department records to determine whether the corporal, designated by Wallis only as "Corporal Crawford," had been tried were demanded.

Senator Watson offered a telegram received to-day from James R. Milton, of Chattanooga, Tenn., saying he also had witnessed the killing of Halley by Crawford and would come to Washington to testify to that effect. Another telegram from W. F. Brock, of Lindale, Ga., said the soldier was killed because he was ill and unable to work, and that Crawford was not tried by court martial.

Wallis, however, had another version, saying that Crawford was tried by court martial, giving a thirty days' furlough and then made a sergeant. To the best of his recollection the killing was in May or June, 1918.

Some of the telegrams referred to Crawford as a captain, but Wallis stuck to his story that he was a corporal at the time of the shooting. Wallis explained that he had been court martialled twice for being absent without leave, losing his pay for ten days for the first offense and locked up (in the stocks) for the second. He said he voluntarily returned in each case.

"There are three A. W. O. L. charges on my discharge papers," he said. Reports published at the time of the Camp Wheeler shooting, he said, showed that Halley was shot while resisting arrest, but he added such reports were not true.

"Did he give the corporal provocation for shooting him?" Senator Watson asked. "None whatever. At the time he was shot Halley's arm had been broken by clubbing. Halley was struck down with a club for refusing to work and then shot in the back, dying the next day."

The name of Major Heron L. Opie, of Staunton, Va., who commanded the 3d Battalion, 116th Infantry, was placed formally before the committee to-day. Testifying yesterday, Henry L. Scott, of Kenmore, Ohio, declared he saw a Major Opie, of the 3d Battalion, 116th Infantry, kill two soldiers at different times "without provocation."

Major Opie, from his home at Staunton, issued a categorical denial, characterizing Scott as a "skulker." In a letter to Chairman Brandegee to-day Colonel Walter A. Bethel, assistant judge advocate general, stated that Colonel Opie was in command of the battalion mentioned by Scott, that he had a fine record, and since the war had been appointed and now is a lieutenant colonel of the infantry reserve corps.

A new batch of witnesses—nine in all—was ordered to appear January 4 for examination in view of their statements made heretofore in letters to Senator Watson and others that they had first-hand knowledge of illegal executions.

House to Study Plan for Bonus By Taxing Beer

Proposed Lifting of Ban on Milder Alcoholic Drinks To Be Before Committee After Christmas Recess

Already Opposed on Floor

Service Men Would Resent Help Raised by "Outlaw Traffic," Nelson Declares

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The feasibility of raising funds for a soldier bonus by a tax on beer and light wine will be considered by the House Ways and Means Committee, Chairman Fordney announced to-day, after the Christmas recess, when the committee takes up the adjusted compensation question, particularly the phase relating to the raising of revenue to finance it. The possibility of a tax on beverages with small alcoholic content will be looked into, Mr. Fordney said, to determine whether it would be advisable and constitutional to lift the prohibition ban sufficiently to permit their sale. Mr. Fordney conferred to-day with Secretary Mellon, but said later the bonus question had not been discussed.

Sales Tax Also Considered

Other suggestions put forth by members of the House for financing a bonus include a variety of sales taxes on different commodities and different classes of manufacturers and business men.

In an address in the House to-day, A. R. Nelson, Republican, of Wisconsin, commenting on the proposed payment of a bonus by a tax on light wines and beer, declared former service men would not look with favor on any plan to raise revenue "in an outlaw traffic in order to meet their legitimate demands for adjusted compensation."

Even if Congress attempted to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and wine, Mr. Nelson said, approximately forty state prohibition laws would prevent its sale. Friends of prohibition enforcement, he predicted, will present "a united front against this scheme for nullifying prohibition."

Declaring there were plenty of sources of revenue open for actual needs without trying "to legalize what the Constitution prohibits," Mr. Nelson asserted that "to attempt to take the veterans of our country's battles to the dead body of the liquor traffic is an outrage."

"No soldier," he added, "wants money coined from blood and tears."

Pugilist Is Found Shot Dead at Side of Road

Jack Goldie Believed to Have Been Thrown From Auto; Four Bullets in Neck

The body of Louis Goldberg, of 3613 Mermaid Avenue, Brooklyn, who was a pugilist known as Jack Goldie, was found about 1:30 a. m. yesterday in Fourteenth Avenue, Brooklyn, between Eighty-third and Eighty-fourth streets.

Four bullets had been fired into the back of his neck, and marks on his body and on the roadway indicated that he had been thrown from an automobile. The body was identified at the morgue by his wife.

She said that her husband had returned about three months ago from Cuba and was employed as a salesman, though she did not know by what firm. He left home about 10 a. m. Tuesday, she said, and did not return.

Pomerene Finds Conditions In Hayti Highly Satisfactory

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Satisfaction with conditions now prevailing in Hayti and the Dominican Republic was expressed to-day by Senator Pomerene, Democrat, of Ohio, a member of the special Senate committee which visited the republics to investigate conditions and which has now returned after spending two weeks there. He would not comment, however, on recommendations in his report. Further hearings are to be held here, when it is expected natives of the two countries will testify. The committee will also confer with Secretary Hughes in a few days, but the Senator did not indicate what subjects would be discussed.

Auxiliary Chairman Urges Women to See That Every Disabled Soldier Receives Cheer at Christmas

Various Posts Plan Personal Visits to Service Men on Holidays; Party Will Be Given at Fox Hills

A Christmas message sent out by Thad Magrino, state chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary, to all members of the organization contains an urgent appeal for the disabled war veterans who are confined at government hospitals. In this message she requests the members of the auxiliary to see to it that each and every man in a government institution be made as cheerful and happy as possible.

Some of the auxiliaries have appointed committees to visit the various hospitals on Christmas Day. Others have appropriated funds to provide these men with luxuries and comfort. And still others have arranged entertainments for the disabled. Virtually every post in this state has devised some way to bring happiness to the wounded men. In some instances delegations have been assigned to visit the hospitals on both December 25 and 26.

Miss Magrino's message, in part, follows: "This coming season of the year affords us unlimited opportunity to bring good cheer to the hearts of our disabled ex-service men, and I urge upon you all to do your utmost to make this the happiest Christmas ever for them."

"Wherever possible, have the members of your welfare committee prepare Christmas packages for the disabled men in the various hospitals and institutions where you have been working. Let me suggest, if you will, that real useful and helpful articles—such as warm gloves, socks, neckties, handkerchiefs, smokes, and other homely things, placing before them a cheery message to lighten the burdens that these men have been called upon to bear."

"Let me also suggest that as many of you members as possible take these packages personally to the men—thus bringing to the surface that all important factor—personal interest."

Party for Adopted Ward

Ward 33 at the Fox Hills Hospital, which has been adopted by the American Legion, will be the guest of the post on Christmas Eve. The post welfare committee has appropriated $200 to purchase individual Christmas presents for the men in this ward.

A large delegation of Legionnaires with their relatives and friends will visit the ward next Saturday afternoon. The visitors will be accompanied by a dance orchestra and a number of professional entertainers.

Legionnaires and friends of former service men have been invited to join the party. It is not necessary to be a former service man to get in on the party. All that is required is that the person be interested in the welfare of the disabled war veterans. The party will leave the Staten Island ferry house from the New York side at 1:30 o'clock.

Santa on Washington Heights

The Richard J. McNally Post of the American Legion will conduct an old-fashioned Christmas festival at the clubhouse, 584 West 183d Street. The children of Washington Heights will be the guests of the post during the day. Santa Claus will welcome the youngsters and there will be a huge Christmas tree with a present for every child. The Christmas tree will be decorated and elaborately illuminated. The entire building will be given over to the children on this day.

The members of the auxiliary attached to the post will act as ushers and will give each child individual attention. The committee in charge of the festival is headed by Samuel E. Dribbling. He is being assisted by Mrs. Blessing, Miss Josephine Schiff, Mrs. Schiff, Mrs. O'Neill, Mrs. Logan, Mrs. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Miller. The expenses will be defrayed by the members.

In addition to the celebration for the children, the relief committee has made arrangements for a delegation of Legionnaires to visit the Seton Hospital and leave a Christmas present with every former service man in that institution. Every effort will be made by members of the post and the auxiliary to impress upon their disabled buddies that the former service man has not forgotten his wounded comrades.

In addition to the celebration for the children, the relief committee has made arrangements for a delegation of Legionnaires to visit the Seton Hospital and leave a Christmas present with every former service man in that institution. Every effort will be made by members of the post and the auxiliary to impress upon their disabled buddies that the former service man has not forgotten his wounded comrades.

Christmas Mail Heaviest In New York's History

The holiday mails in this city are larger than ever before. The increase over last year's business, it was said last night by Postmaster Edward M. Morgan, was 10 per cent. The regular clerical force of 15,000 has been increased to 17,500, most of the emergency clerks being former service men or college students.

Sixteen auxiliary sub-stations have been opened in public schools. All of the sub-stations remain open until 10 p. m. Four hundred and fourteen motor trucks have been added to the 275 in use ordinarily and the number of horse-drawn trucks has been increased from 70 to 140.

Outgoing mails yesterday contained 7,915,254 letters and 559,536 parcels, to say nothing of mail listed in other classes, which also is heavier than usual. Incoming mails are almost as heavy.

With these remarks, Mr. Morgan wished all the employees of the Post office a Merry Christmas—and a short one.

France Insists Americans Must Have Vised Passports

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The French government has decided to enforce rigidly its regulations requiring Americans entering French territory to bear passports properly vised by French diplomatic or consular officers, the State Department was advised to-day. In its communication the French government states that many American citizens have gone to France without obtaining a visa and that upon reaching a French port have encountered considerable difficulty in obtaining permission to enter. Americans in France, it was explained, need not obtain a French visa in order to depart for the United States.

The post, which is made up of members of the Lamba, will provide Christmas dinners, a present for the children, money for the service men, and a gift for the husband. Colonel Reginald Barlow, the commander of the post, has announced that a large sum has been appropriated for this work.

Bishop Manning a Chaplain

At the annual meeting of the executive committee of the 77th Division Association at the clubhouse at 27 West Twenty-fifth Street on Tuesday evening, Bishop William T. Manning was elected chaplain of the association. His interest in the division always has been great, since he acted as chaplain of the 302d Engineer Regiment during Camp Upton days, and the rooms now occupied by the association are rented to it through the courtesy of Trinity Parish.

Other Officers Elected for the Year 1922 were:

George G. McMurtry, 308th Infantry, honorary president; Merrill E. Gates, Jr., division headquarters, president; Henry L. Stimson, 305th Field Artillery, first vice-president; Walter W. Metcalf, 305th Infantry, second vice-president; Delancey K. Jay, 307th Infantry, third vice-president; Hugh H. McGee, division headquarters, treasurer; and Ferdinand D. Sanford, 306th Infantry, secretary.

BATTEN

Who Are "We, the People"?

As a boy you were taught that the people won their first victory seven centuries ago when they forced King John to sign the Magna Carta.

But who were "the people"? They were a little bunch of barons.

John the Cobbler, where was he?—and Egbert the Farmer, and Peter the Tailor? They had no opinion, no way of forming an opinion, no means of expressing an opinion.

In our day—thanks to the printed page—these men are Public Opinion.

They are mighty, for they are millions. They make laws, they choose rulers. By their favorable opinion of your product your business prospers.

To make a business ally of the modern force of Public Opinion, a modern calling has developed. It is called Advertising.

Its purpose and its result is to mould favorable Public Opinion for articles and services that deserve it.

ONCE a month, or more frequently, we issue a publication called Batten's Wedge. Each issue is devoted to a single editorial on some phase of business. If you are a business executive and would like to receive copies, write us.
